

Abstract of the Disclosure

A system of reserving a connecting service to the internet at a time period, includes a reservation table and a contract unit.

A state with regard to a reservation for a
5 connecting service to the internet at a time period is stored in the reservation table.

The contract unit inputs a reserving demand to reserve the connecting service to the internet at a certain time period from a user to judge 10 whether the reserving demand is permitted with reference to the reservation table.